HAYSMED

Carotid Angiogram

A carotid angiogram is a procedure that looks at the arteries in your neck. Dye is injected into the artery and an x-ray machine allows the cardiologist to visualize your arteries to check for any blockages.

Sedation

During the procedure a nurse will give you sedation medication through your IV that is called moderate sedation. Usually, general sedation is not used. With moderate sedation you will be able to protect your own airway and will be breathing on your own. Moderate sedation can cause side effects such as nausea or drowsiness.

Discharge Instructions

- If procedure was done through your groin No lifting anything heavier than 10 pounds for 1 week.
- If procedure was done through your wrist No lifting anything heavier than 5 pounds for 3 days.
- No driving or returning to work for 48 hours.
- No showering for 24 hours. Tomorrow you may shower and wash the procedure site with soap and water, do not aggressively rub procedure site. After showering, replace the bandage with a clean, dry bandaid.
- Don't submerge the procedure site in dirty water till it is completely healed and only take showers until procedure site is completely healed, which is usually 5 7 days.
- Watch the procedure site for any signs of infection: redness, swelling, or abnormal drainage. If any of these symptoms develop please notify your physician.

- Watch procedure site for bruising. It is normal to have some bruising, but if the bruise starts growing in size or becomes swollen and hard then please notify your physician immediately.
- Prior to discharge a nurse will make you a follow up appointment and review home medication list.
- You will need to arrange a ride home. You will not be able to drive yourself.

Seek care immediately if:

- Your extremity becomes numb, hurts a lot, cool to the touch, or changes color
- You become weak on one side of your body or face
- You have changes in your vision
- You have trouble speaking clearly
- Chest pain
- Sudden shortness of breath

If procedure site begins bleeding, hold firm pressure on the bandage and call 911. Do not drive yourself.
